15M CW NET Club station W6ZE meets every Wednesday evening
from 7PM to 8PM on 21.175 MHz. All amateurs are welcome to check in. Lots of CW practice for everyone.

CALLBOOK SERVICE

The club has copies of the latest callbooks which are available at each meeting. Also, you can contact Martin-WB6PEX on Monday and Thursday evenings between 7:00 PM and 9:00 PM if you need addresses. If you have more than one call for Martin to check, he'll get them all and call you back the same night. Also, look for Martin after the Wednesday evening net.

THE PREZ SEZ:

The August meeting was a great success. John Griggs - W6KW, ARRL Director of the Southwestern Division, was the guest speaker and held a "Standing Room Only" audience captive for the entire evening. It was good to see so many turn out to hear John. And John was able to once again turn on an endless series of information on new happenings, new trends, significant legislation, and problems to ponder. John, thanks again for visiting our club, we enjoyed hearing you very much.

In two months (October Meeting) will be the annual OCARC Auction. So start cleaning out your garage and shack. Full details will be in your October paper.

Our Membership Chairman, Ted - K6LJA, has also updated the roster to add new members and correct mistakes. You'll find your copy of the latest roster on pages 5 and 6. Additional copies will be available at the September meeting.

Minutes of the Board Meeting

A Board Meeting was held at the QTH of Fried - WA6WZO on September 3, 1974. The main order of business was to discuss the upcoming October auction. The board decided to change the fee system to be 10% of the bid plus a one dollar seller's fee. Again it is asked that all sellers have their call and minimum acceptable bid listed on each item. Also, items should be limited to electronics and please "NO JUNK"!!!

Harold - WA6BJO reported the OCARC has $340 in the checking account. Of this amount $112 is income from the yearly raffle.

TRANSISTOR SWITCHING - by Bob, WB6QNU

With the advent of TTL integrated circuits, hams are building sophisticated keyers. Many designs, however, lose their 'state of the art' by using a relay to key the transmitter. Relays have many disadvantages and can be a major source of trouble in keyers.

A transistor can be used in place of the relay, however, many hams tend to shy away because of all the associated problems that are rumored. But, when properly done, a transistor will give excellent results with superior solid state reliability. Before we discuss the interfacing lets look at how a typical transmitter is keyed. Most transmitters of the past decade use grid block keying. Figure 1 shows a typical simplified circuit. A negative voltage of between 50 and 125 volts is applied through a pull up resistor R_{p1} to the control grids of various stages of the transmitter biasing these stages into cutoff. When the key is closed, it shorts this voltage to ground removing the bias and allowing the stages to conduct. R_{p1} acts to limit the current through the key. (5ma is typical.)

To key the transmitter with a transistor the transistor must be able to switch a high negative voltage at low current. Figure 2 shows the use of a common high voltage PNP germanium transistor to key a grid block transmitter. R_2 and D_1 , which must be a silicon diode, bias the emitter at about 0.7 volts. As long as the input voltage through R_1 to the base is at TTL (or RTL) high level (+2 to 5V) the transistor is reverse biased and won't conduct. But when the input drops to low the base emitter junction become forward biased and the transistor conducts bringing the keying line from its high negative voltage beyond zero to +0.7 V keying the transmitter.

Germanium transistors were used in this circuit because of the scarcity of high voltage PNP silicon transistors. However, Fairchild now makes the 2N4888 which is superior to the 2N397 in many ways. Figure 3 shows a schematic of the circuit using the 2N4888. Two silicon diodes are required in the emitter circuit to assure turning on the silicon transistor because of the greater forward biased junction voltage drop.

This circuit has given me years of uneventful operation keying first my Heath Apache (110 V across the key) and now my Heath SB-401. The 2N4888 can be had for around $1.50.
